unique tours in norway

Try pike fishing in our lakes and salmon fishing in our rivers

with professional guides

How about catching cod

and deep-sea fishing with the local fishermen ?

*B*esides salmon fishing, Norway's rivers and lakes offer an excellent variety of abundant fishing.

Norway has more than 600 rivers with good stocks of Atlantic salmon and where classical fly-fishing for trout is extremely popular. The rivers are spread from the Swedish border and round the whole coast to the Russian border.

Wherever you are in Norway you will not be far from the nearest fishing waters. We have more than 240 000 waters and lakes with popular species such as trout, char, pike, perch, grayling and whitefish.

Northway arranges the fishing tours in close cooperation with fishing guides who are well-acquainted with the local areas.

*N*orway's extensive and varied coast is a paradise for saltwater and deep-sea fishing.

Norway has a long coastline with varied and unique nature. With bays, fjords and islands it is more than 83 000 kilometres long.

Saltwater fishing can be done from boat or from land – the whole year! Normal catches are cod and coalfish, but also ling and halibut are often caught. Local fishermen take you out in their own boats for deep-sea fishing, where the really big fish are.

In the far north you can catch the giant crab from the Barents Sea: the red king crab, which with its weight of up to 15 kilograms and two metres span between its claws is a magnificent sight!
